

Before you blast off with the Robinson Rockets, you must design your own rocket. Please ask your parents for a recent photograph of yourself that you can cut up and glue your face into the window of the rocket picture (you can draw a self-portrait if you cannot find a photograph) then decorate your rocket. On the rocket, I would like you to write your name as you would like to be called (for example, Mike instead of Michael, Katie not Katherine). Finally, in the cloud below the rocket, please write one thing that you think makes you “outta this world.” Maybe you are an excellent soccer player, or maybe you love to write and illustrate your own comic books. I want to know what makes you special. If you need some extra help brainstorming, talk to your parents, they are full of reasons why you Rock-It. Cut out your rocket and please make sure that you bring this with you on the first day of school. I can’t wait to meet my Rockets!
